

Elain Witt Speaker Introduction

Do you want to increase your power to influence your audience? Then you're in the right place. Elain Witt has developed a laser-focused process that helps you say the right words in the right way. You will be able to identify, clarify, and maximize your message so your audience will love it and remember it. She rescues you from potential speaking disasters caused by the mountain of misinformation you've heard all your life.

Elain has been a results-driven communicator since age ten when she sold 600 of boxes of Girl Scout cookies door-to-door in two weeks. She learned on each doorstep that success means your message drives specific audience action.

Elain has a master's degree in Mass Communication, is CEO of Speakers Training Center and past-president of the Mountain West Chapter of The National Speakers Association. She has trained thousands of speakers for over two decades. She has coached clients from 34 different countries, teaches a university speaking course, and has written a popular book on speaking skills.

Elain's life, both on and off stage, is heart-pounding high adventure.

She has:

- canoed with alligators
- given birth at home
- accidentally burned off her eyebrows
- gotten lost in the Swiss Alps
- raised five fabulous children, and
- jumped out of a perfectly good airplane.

Each morning, Elain hikes a mountain above her Utah home dodging tarantulas, scorpions, and rattlesnakes to bring you the insights she learns from doing something hard every day.

It's time to see yourself and your audience in a new way. If you want to make every word count, then please welcome our speaker—a one-woman power station—Elain Witt.
