

Lee S. McCullough, III received a Master of Accountancy degree from Brigham Young University and a Juris Doctorate degree from the J. Reuben Clark Law School at Brigham Young University, where he graduated magna cum laude. Lee is an adjunct professor at the law school at Brigham Young University and he operates a law office in Provo, Utah, practicing exclusively in the areas of estate planning, asset protection. Lee is the president-elect of the Utah Valley Estate Planning Council. Lee will be reviewing the financial results from several case studies based on his experience working on hundreds of sales to defective grantor trusts.